MAILED FOUNDERS' DAY

WITH MUSIC AND FLAGS. Bells Rang in the Morning-Children Sang and Band Played in the After-

Founders' day, or the 255th birthday If the town of Norwich, began with a sunrise celebration Saturday, for Prof. J. Herbert George ushered in the anniversary by playing The Star Spangled Banner on the cornet at his home on Hamlin street, later breaking out Old Giory to the breeze. In a short time houses and buildings in all sections of the town were displaying the Stars and Stripes.

At 8.30 the bell of the Second Congregational church began pealing, and from all points the other bells joined in, the jubilant chorus lasting until 9 o'clock. Janitor Fields rang the courthouse bell during the same period.

Children's Celebration. Just before 3 o'clock an assemblage of children from the different schools awaited Prof. George on the city hall steps, receiving song leaflets containing the words of America, Star Spangled Banner and Auld Lang Syne, At 3 Tubbs' band, John M. Swahn leader, from a temporary platform near the from a temporary platform near the Central Baptist church, began its fine-by rendered programme. After the by rendered programme. This is Benefactors' day, and you are invited to join in celebrating the memory of those who have conferred noted benefits upon the city or upon its charities and institutions.

Every citizen and every child in Norwich is enjoying the benefits of these munificent gifts and it is fitting that all should set apart a day for ex-pressions of gratitude in honor of the

This little flag is presented to you as a souvenir of this occasion. Will Provide Other Flags.

Recognizing the fact that many children who did not sing came in and received flags, Mr. Smith has generously agreed to arrange with Supt. E. J. Graham to see that each disappointed little singer will receive a pretty flag later. The children sang well under Mr. George's direction.

James LaPoint left for New York on Doods of Large Hearted Men and Women Brought to Public Notice in Exercises of Benefactors' Day-Norwich, England, Sends Greeting to Her Daughter City.

Tribute to the benefactfors of Nerwich from its founding 265 years ago to the present day was paid on Sunday afternoon in a public mass meeting in the Davis theatre where an audience of 600 that filled the body of the house was thrilled by the brief but inspiring addresses by prominent citizens who participated in the Benefactors' day programme and called to mind with new emphasis the service that had been given to city and town by large hearted and broad minded men and women in civic, educational, charitable and religious affairs. It was the first event of the kind ever held in the city and was carried out in so satisfactory and fitting a way as to earn the warmest praise for those who planned and carried it through so successfully.

The exercises began at 2 o'clock

The exercises began at 3 o'clock with an admirable programme by Valter W. Lang's orchestra of 10 deces. The numbers were the folowing:
War March of the Priests from At-thalia, Mendelssohn

Benefactors' Day Booklet.

As those attending the exercises entered the theater, they were each handed a copy of the Benefactors' day booklet, prepared by the statistics committee, William C. Gilman chairman, and containing a long list of the benefactor of Norwich. The neat little booklet in its blue cover made a valuable contribution to the program of the day and was perused with interest. As a number of copies of the issue still remain in the hands of Mr. Gilman, they can be obtained while the supply lasts.

A bay tree and decorative evergreens were arranged on either side of the stage at the base of the proscentum arch and on the chairman's table was a beautiful basket of red roses symbolic of Norwich, the Rose of New England. Benefactors' Day Booklet.

In connection with the enthusiasm he felt when the idea of Benefactors' day was first suggested by Dr. Brewer, he spoke of attending the 250th anniversary of the Norwich Free Academy and the profound im-pression made in hearing of what the founders of that institution had done. Norwich has had a great past he said Norwich has had a great past, he said, greater than we realize, but the future lies largely in the hands of this audience and in what we do will lie

, Benefactors of Libraries. efactors of Our Public Libraries

Benefactors of Our Public Libraries was the topic upon which Gen. William A. Aiken, president of the Otis library, spoke, first acknowledging feelingly the kindly expression Chairman Brewer had made of the gratification that General Aiken's fellow citizens had feit in knowing of his recovery from a recent serious lilness.

General Aiken went on to speak of Joseph Otis, who in 1849 wrote to Rev. Dr. Bend of his intention to bequer to seven distinguished citizens a buildin which he had erected, with a clause that the first floor should be used for the citizens of Norwich. For the years the trustees had worked faithfully to make it as useful as possible to the citizens, and in 1891 the idea of having a free library arose when William A Slater said that he and George Palmer between them would give 17,500 if the trustees would raise $10,000 more. This was done. General Alken commended the action of the citizens who at town meeting in 1898 answered the request for cooperation and the free library became possible.

Its circulation instantly increased possible.

Its circulation instantly increased over eight times what it had been before, and the public interest was shown by the fact that in the first 40 years only one gift of $1,000 had been received, but in the next 20 over $55,000 had been received, but in the next 20 over $55,000. ceived, but in the next 20 over $55,000 was given by seven gentlemen. There is a personal service, too, not to se measured in doflars and cents, and the taxpayers of Norwich in a spirit of generosity have given the sums asked for year by year which have made the library of inestimable public benefit.

Principal Tirrell Speaks.

Principal Henry A. Tirrell of the Norwich Free Academy spoke impressively upon the topic Benefactors of Our Educational Institutions, declaring that the most cherished possessions of any country are its children, and that it was of importance to home, church, country and state what training was given to the rounger genera-church, country and state what training was given to the younger seneration. The existence of public and parochial schools and the Academy voice the vonviction that the prosperity of the country depends upon education.

About 69 years ago John Putnam Gulliver so inspired the citizens with this idea that 50 of them united to found the Academy, and since that day hundreds have contributed to its support. No list of names could adequately show the affection that went with these gifts. In these 69 years over three-quarters of a million have been given for the Academy and have been given for the Academy and has represented a direct saving to the town of a large amount of money. More than 4,000 pupils have shared the opportunity offered and have gone out to shed its influence. Through that influence our benefactors still live. They have made an investment for better have made an investment for better character and patriotism, whose divi-dends are better than gold, for they are shown in a richer character, a broader citizenship.

One name Principal Tirrell said he would mention as typical of Norwica benefactors, that of William A. Slater, a man whose great heart was an in spiration to all. The generosity of our benefactors is a standing challenge to us to do our best part for our country. The reference to Mr. Slater's name The reference to Mr. Slater's name was the signal for a burst of applause. Benefactors of Our Parks.

Benefactors of Our Parks.

Hon, Joseph T. Familing, president of the park board, spoke upon the theme, Benefactors of Our Parks.

In the oldest portion of the community, he said, our park system had its origin 185 years ago. This was in the setting apart of the Norwich Town Green and the green at Bean Hill. In 1797 Thomas Fanning, Joseph Perkins and Joshua Lathrop gave the Chelsea Parade, a civic triangle unmatched for beauty. In 1811 Hezeliah Perkins and Jabez Huntington gave the "Little Plain," and in 1859 gave the "Little Plain," and in 1851 Horace Walker and Avery Smith deeded the present Franklin street park. In 1875 Henry Bill gave the Laurel Hill park, and in 1906 the acre of land which included the picturesque Meet-ing House Rocks was given by Willis Perkins, a gift that was amplified by Miss Sterry and some ladies of the rural association. The Lowthorpe meadows of about 12 acres were the gift of the Gliman Mohegan Park contains about 274 acres, of which 218 were donated by Dr. John A. Rockwell, Rev. Leonard acres, of which 218 were donated by Dr. John A. Rockwell, Rev. Leonard W. Bacon and family, Mrs. Henry L. Reynolds, Gen. Edward Harland, J. Hunt Smith and a person who refuses to have his name published. Charles Bard, the Misses Fannie L. and Edith M. Bliss and Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Bond of New London, Mr. Fanning referred to the superior beauties of the park to which some lines of Edmund Clarence Stedman aptiy apply, which he quoted, and he said that he hoped before long the Shore Line Electric Railway company might be numbered among the benemight be numbered among the bene-actors by extending its line to the might park rendered by the chorus with splendid tonal effect. Hospital Benefactors. Benefactors of Our Hospitals were spoken of by Winslow T. Williams, president of the Wm. W. Backus hos-pital; who spoke of the 23 years of the hospital's existence and said that all he could do was to thrown up his hands in attempting to express thankfulness to William A. Slater whose gift of $375,000 and his influence in securing the gift of $140,000 from William W. Backus had been the two largest endowments to the hospital.

He mentioned with appreciation the cift of $15,000 from the large Lake West. He mentioned with appreciation the gift of $15,000 from the late John Eccles, and the services given by hospital visitors, clergymen, physicians, and those who furnish entertainment for the patients. All were benefactors of the truest kind. The demands of the hospital are so great that continued and increased support is needed to continue and increase its usefulness to the community. He said howishes to correct the impression that it was rolling in wealth and unable to spend its income for the last year had closed with a balance of $150 in the running expences, and it had been compolled to increase its rates, but they were still lower than any but they were still lower than any other institution in the state for the service rendered. Charitable Institutions. Rev. Charles A. Northrop, city missionary, spoke earnestly upon the sub-ject Benefactors of Our Charitable In-stitutions describing what the United Workers had done in their 37 years of existence in which time they had handled $675,000, and had $250,000 had handled $675,000, and had $250,000 in legacies, ranging from $50 to $75,000 as far as benefactors went he said it seemed as if everybody who ever amounted to anything in Norwich gave to the United Workers. They now had $143,000 invested in funds from which $6,000 income was derived $3,000 was derived from sale of articles and $15,000 was spent yearly so that there was $5,000 to raise from the public contribution. public contribution.

In the first fourteen years legacies had amounted to $82,000 and in the last fourteen years to $173,000. Seventeen men had given $170,000 and 35 women $80,000.

Rev. Mr. Northrop was deeply affected as he made reference to the gifts of Moses Pierce and the late John Ecoles with which he closed, reading a poem descriptive of the great influence in helping the life of a child.

windows. He spoke in apprecia of the great interest the King Dan ers showed in the home and the untion of their cooperation with trustees.

After a selection by the male chorus, Soldier Chorus from Faust, Chairman Brewer paid a warm tribute to the unselfishness and noble character of the late John Eccles and then prasented Rev. Ulric O Bellerose of the Church of the Sacred Heart at Taftville who pronounced the benediction. The exercises closed with a selection by the orchestra, The Stars and the Stripes Forever. Stripes Forever, Roses to Mr. Slater,

At the close of the meeting, Chairman James C. Macpherson thoughtfully sent the basket of roses which had symbolized Norwich, the Rose of New England to Mr. Slater, at the Wauregan. His health did not permit his attendance at the exercises.
